50th Anniversary~

Dedication

To An Old and Dear Friend Who Has Come Home.

Father Albin Scheidler, former business manager and teacher at St. Joseph's, returned last fall to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination and to begin his much-deserved retirement.

Ordained on October 25, 1910, Father Scheidler spent the first twenty-eight years of his priesthood here, teaching several subjects and organizing many programs for the betterment and expansion of the College. Then, in 1938, other duties called him and for twenty-two years he was gone. But his years here had endeared him to the College, which did not forget him. Upon his return last September, St. Joseph's happily welcomed him back and shared in the joy of his golden jubilee.

In order to share in the celebration of his golden jubilee and to thank him for his years of effort in behalf of St. Joseph's College, the 1961 Phase is dedicated to Father Albin Scheidler.

Who's Who

Wilson Award

When the recent high school graduate arrives on the campus of St. Joseph's to begin his freshman year, he brings with him a number of rudimentary skills—a grasp of English grammar, the knack of setting up scientific experiments, the habit of mathematical reasoning. With these tools at his disposal, it is his task during the next four years to begin to master those study disciplines that will make him an intelligent and cultured Man, a dedicated but informed Catholic, and a willing worker in whatever field he may choose as his vocation. St. Joseph's tries to encourage him in his important task by providing a well-rounded curriculum in the arts and sciences taught by graduates of some of the nation's finest universities. In addition, the College is constantly striving to improve the equipment of its classrooms and laboratories, and to extend the holdings of its library.

With such facilities available to him for four long years, any student admitted to St. Joseph's can make himself, by the time of his graduation, well-equipped to face the intellectual, religious, and vocational challenges that the world will inevitably fling at him as he goes forth to determine how significant his life shall be.

Dear Seniors,

On behalf of the Trustees, Faculty and Staff of the College, I wish to congratulate you graduates of 1961 and to assure you that all of us join in your joy of accomplishment.

We are confident that your college career has adequately prepared you to become stalwart leaders of men for God and country, and we are equally hopeful that you will ever cling to the ideals of your moments of high inspiration, thus assuring solid success, temporal and eternal, in all your working and praying and living.

In the tremendous modern struggle between the forces of good and evil there can be no mediocrity or compromise. Hence, through the intercession of St. Joseph, we beg for each one of you, as participants in this conflict, God's constant protection and boundless grace and abiding love.

Though the principal aim of any college is academic, St. Joseph's does not fail to emphasize the necessity for developing the religious life of its students. At St. Joseph's opportunities abound for "restoring all things to Christ." Mass, Holy Communion, Confession, Benediction, and Rosary are available daily. The dialogue and hymn Masses bring the student in step with the living liturgy of the Roman rite. The School offers these opportunities so that its graduates may prepare themselves well to shoulder the moral responsibilities of adult life.

The student, as a human being, has one reason for existence—the salvation of his soul. Whether college life helps or hinders him in this quest for salvation depends upon his attitudes. For the student with a religious attitude, the Future takes on a special meaning; to him, life and its goals are not hopelessly confusing. He sees something religious in the word "vocation," whatever his may be. He recognizes everlasting life as his ultimate end, his destiny, his Future. And he realizes that his college days must be effectively put to use in pursuit of that goal.

REQUIESCAT IN PACE...

On November 17, 1960, tragedy struck St. Joseph's College. Brother Frederick Bechtel, a 28 year member of the Society of the Precious Blood, died as a result of a fall while working in the powerhouse. Brother Fred had been at St. Joe's for 13 years, working most of the time in the powerhouse. On November 13, while working, he suffered a fatal fall which ended in death some days later. May he rest in peace...

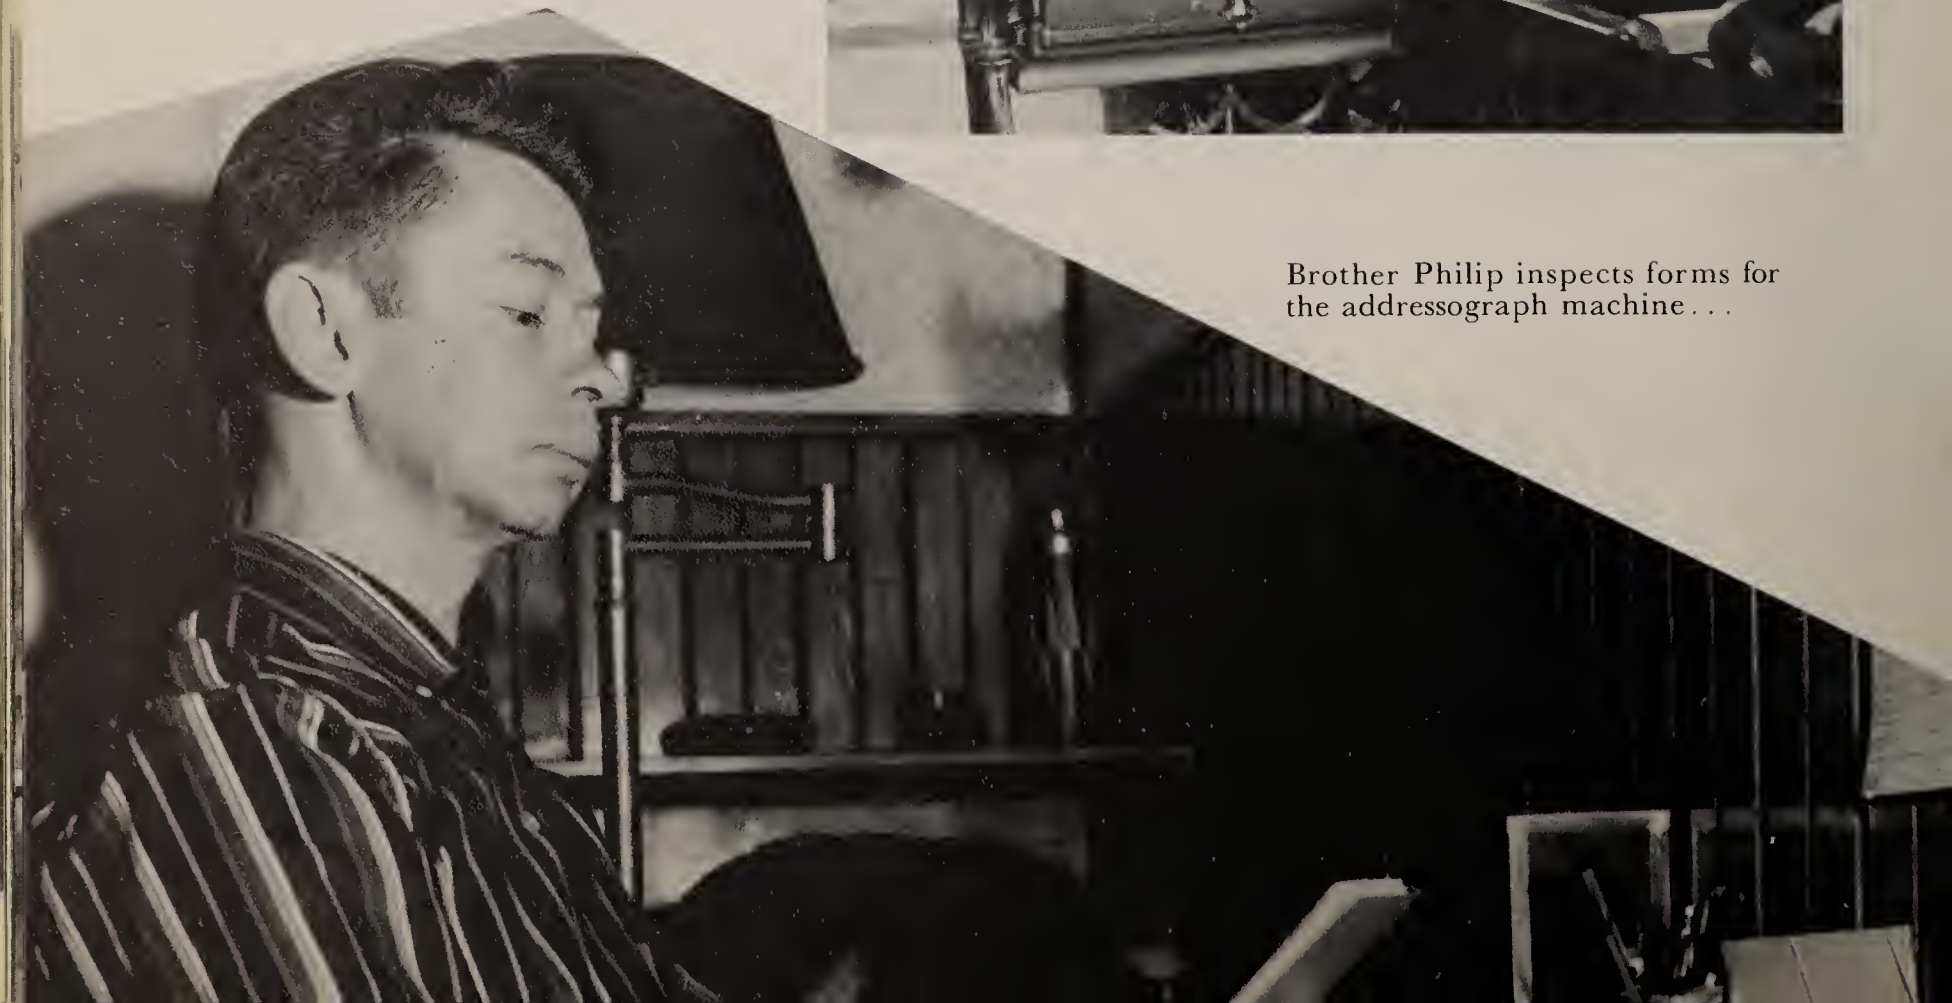

BROTHERS...

High on the list of indispensables here at college are the Brothers belonging to the Society of the Most Precious Blood. Although their functions are many, their recognition is slight. May these pages convey, in some degree, our appreciation for their work...

Brother Philip inspects forms for the addressograph machine...

Jack of all trades, Brother Louis catches up on some bookkeeping for the chemistry lab.

Helping to keep the campus in tip-top shape is a full time job for Brother Henry.

Brother John is a full time and age old member of the farm crew.

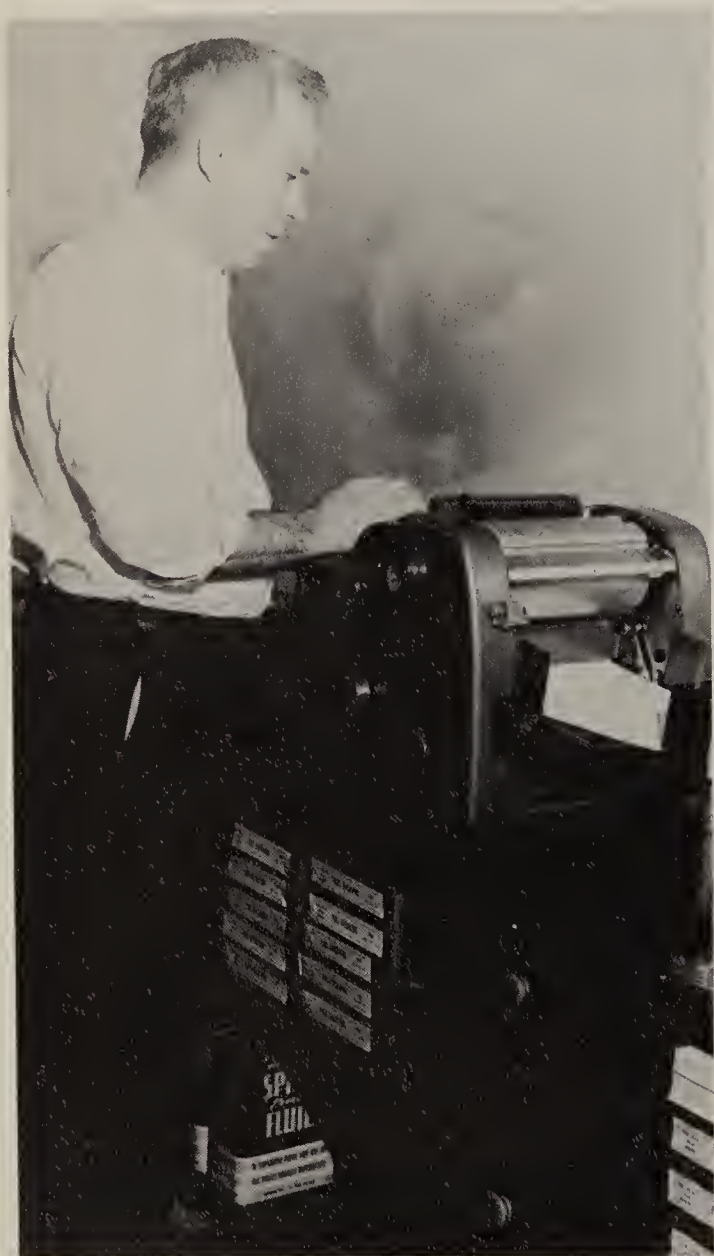

Brother Joe Mary makes the athletic equipment available for St. Joe men.

Brother Larry takes time out from his duties in the powerhouse for a little recreation—Western style.

Brother Gerard's not loafing, just checking up on business.

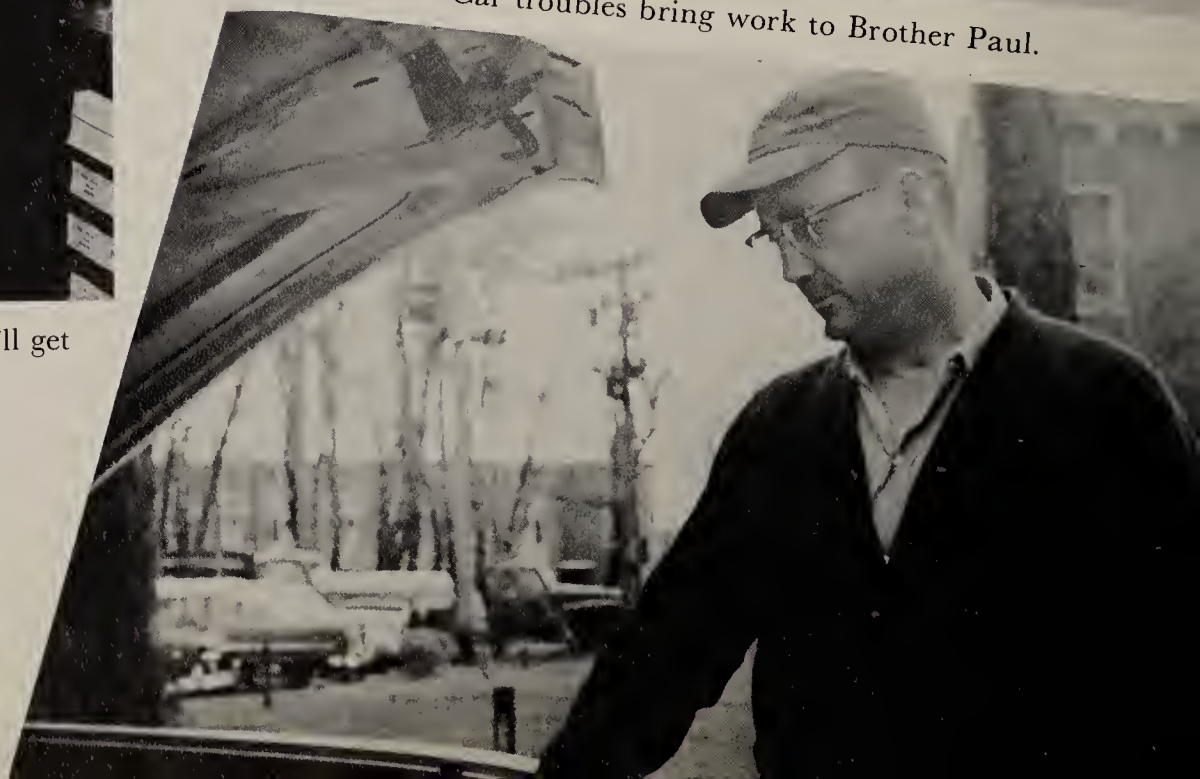

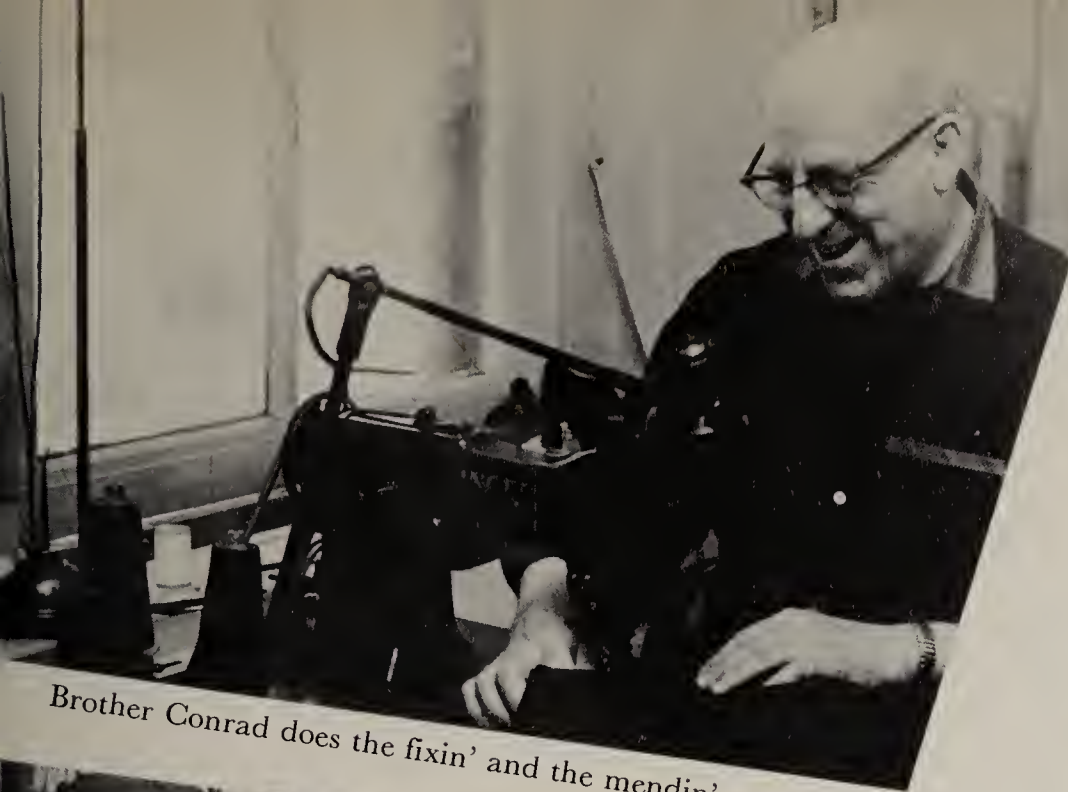

"You have to watch these things or they'll get away from you"—Brother Anselm.

Brother Alphonse's job needs no explanation!

Car troubles bring work to Brother Paul.

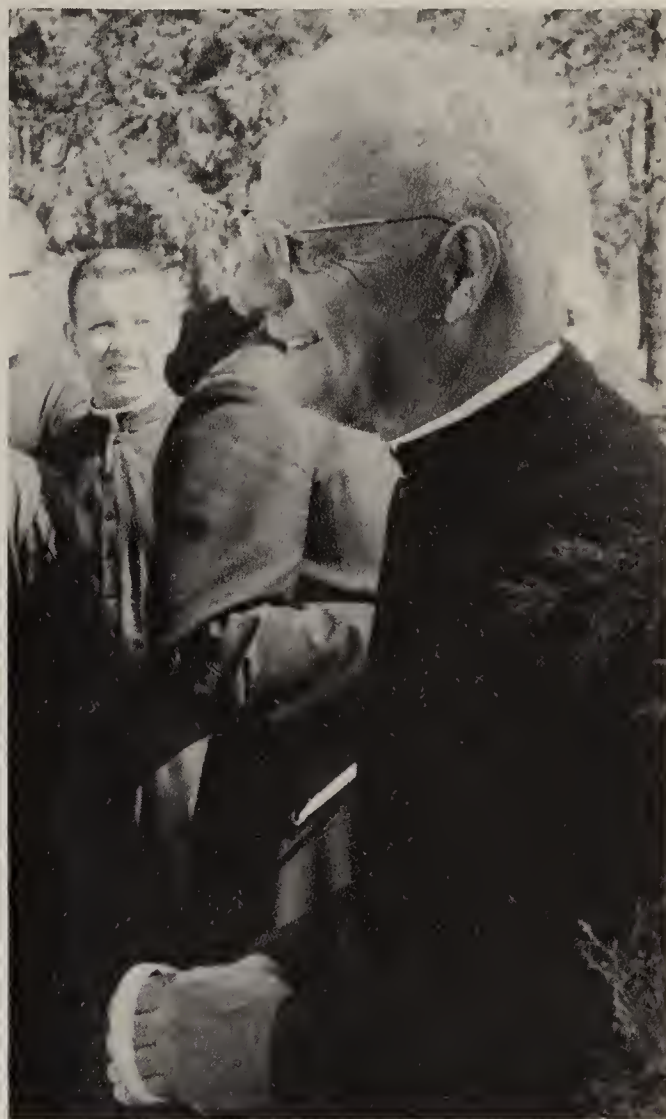

Brother Conrad does the fixin' and the mendin' at St. Joe.

Brother Pius helps shoulder the many duties at the Dean of Students' office.

Work at the business office doesn't seem to be too bad for Brother Albin.

Palm Sunday finds Brother Fidelis in happy spirits.

Brother Frank helps with the maintenance at the powerhouse.

Seminarians

Along with the various groups on campus are the cassocked seminarians aspiring to become members and priests of the Society of the Most Precious Blood. Residing in Xavier Hall, and under the direction of Father Herber, their Magister Spiritus, and Father Kramer, their assistant Magister, they live a unique college life. In some ways they are simply a part of the student body; in others, they are distinctly apart, separated. The program for the seminarians is complex, the goal quite simple . . .

. . . through a schedule which integrates prayer, work, study, and play, the students at Xavier are being prepared for a difficult future life. To be "all things to all men" is indeed difficult, perhaps impossible. But to the degree that these future "Other Christs" are capable of being such, to that same degree will they be capable of "restoring all things to Christ". . .

Jim Biehl, Mike Volkmer, Ed Wolff, and Al Bellantonio hit the books—informally of course.

Paul Traci, Jim Wichtman, Bob Young, and Paul Christiansen are discussing—something.

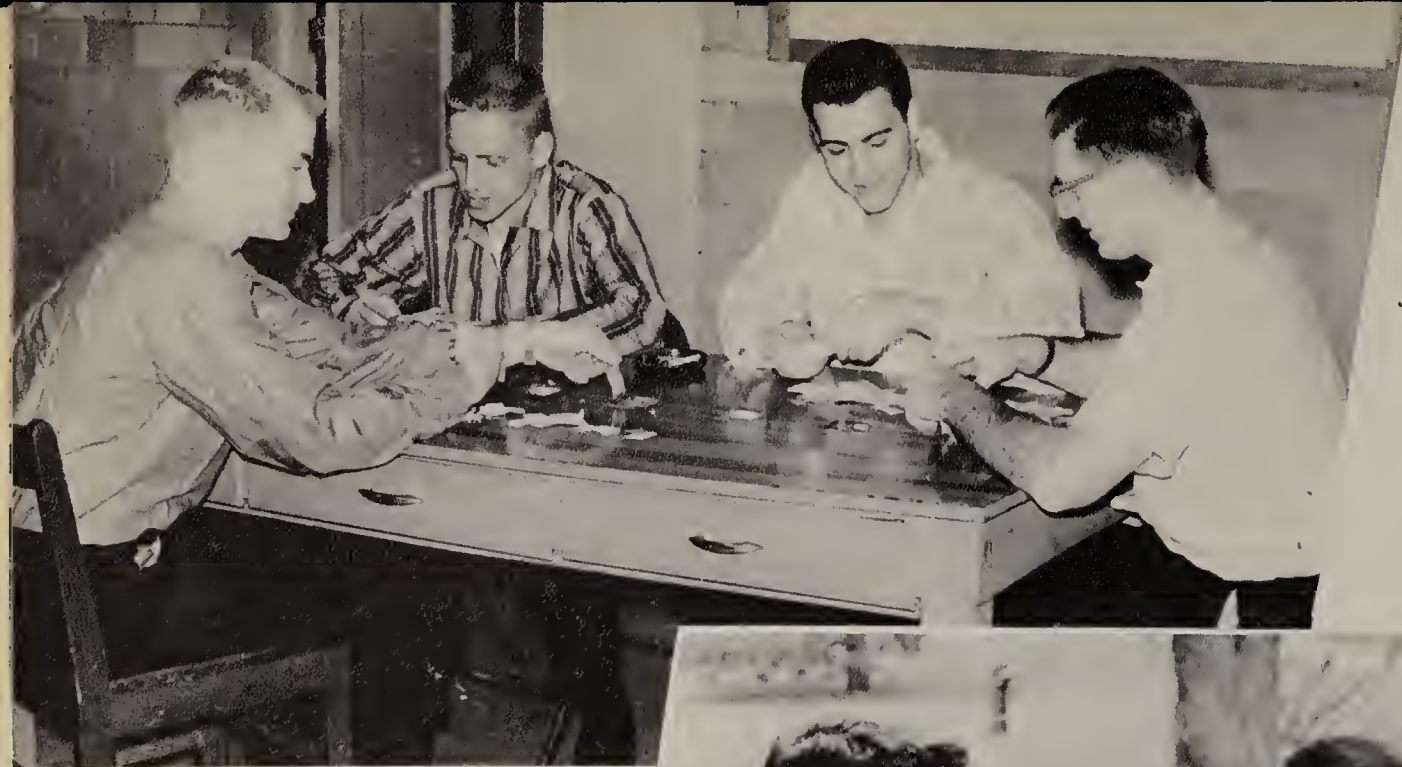

Ken Pleiman, Bob Stith, and Jim Ward gave the cameraman a break: they posed.

Maurice Bernier, Jerry Gladu, Ron Hemmelgarn, and Dick Spraley are all smiles.

Jim Burch, Ron Denicola, Ron Haddad, and Maurice Bernier enjoy sorting stamps for the missions.

Mike Wood, Steve Cupak, and Leonard Brinkmoeller have a lively chat before lunch.

Not a bad record, eh? John Post, Ed Gehrlich, Jerry Klosterman, and Jim Marchal.

Lowell Linder, Jim Reinhart, Dennis Keller, and Pete Oberliesen—the epitome of relaxation!

Louie Beshara, Larry Eiting, Rich Andolsen, and Dick Colbert are almost oblivious—of the cameraman!

Tom Welk, Larry Wyen, and Joe Teaffe gather round their patron—St. Gaspar.

Tom Sherlock, Dick Krupa, John Wolf, and Jim Readwin pass the time with a card game.

The big three from Fort Wayne —Tim Dillon, Steve Bender, and Joe Uecker.

"Fritz" Setzkorn, Sam Rankin, Willard Mowery, and Ernie Krantz seem to be having a good laugh over something.

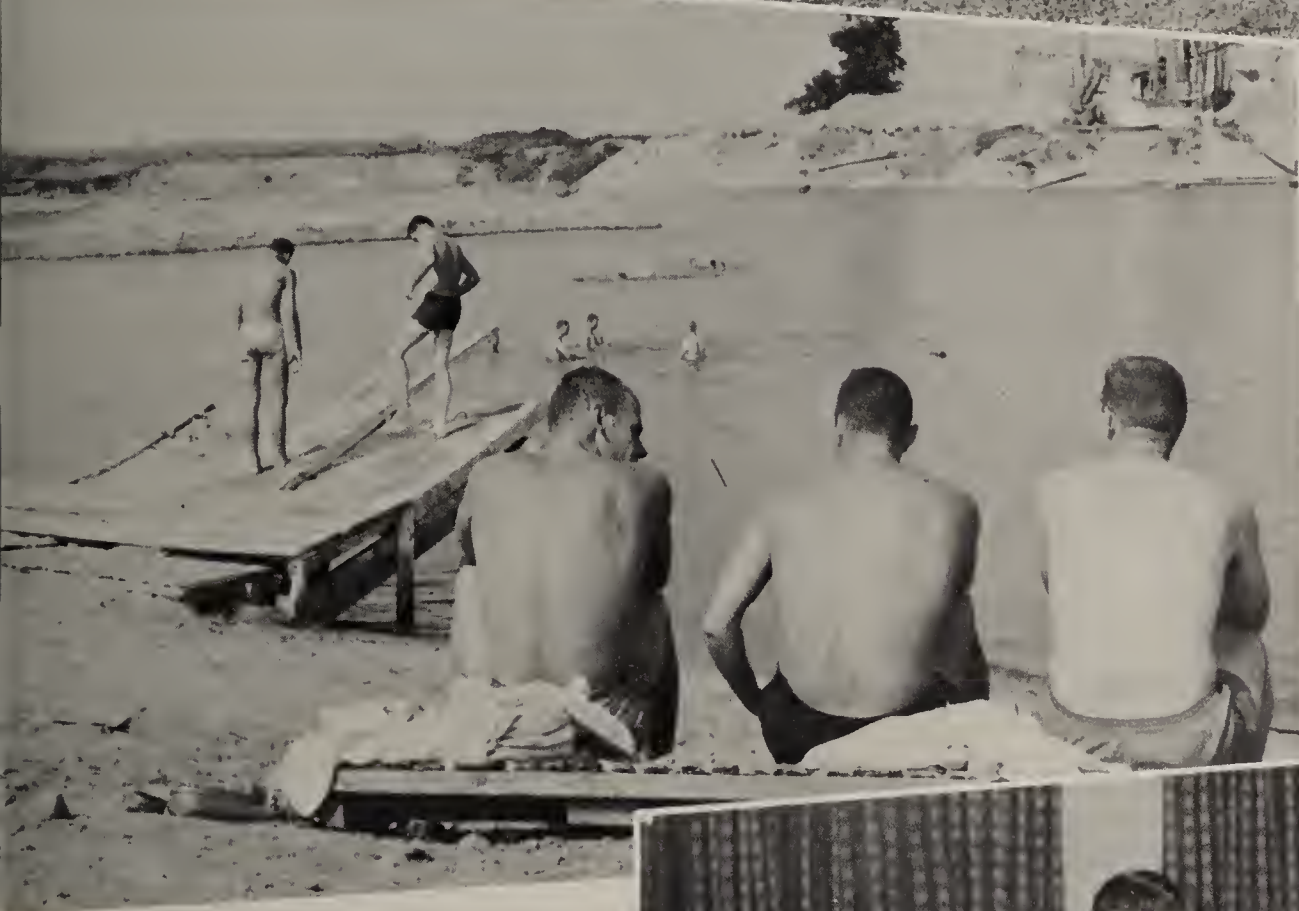

This wasn't posed. Joe Schwinger, John Roth, and Jerry Moynahan always do this for recreation.

Bill Elliot, Dave Marecki, Bob Kenney, and Jim Couhig take a break from the grind of study-hall.

Life in the seminary is a mixed affair. The four main facets of the program—prayer, work, study, and play—are interwoven in a fashion completely advantageous to the welfare of the student. Life is run by the bell, motivated by the Rule . . . Here at Xavier an entity completely divorced from the rest of the college exists. There is a Student Council, a student recreation center, and organized student sports.

. . . The three pictures on this page are meant to illustrate some of the more pleasant sides of seminary life, and at the same time to destroy any erroneous notions that all seminarians do is pray and study, for this could not be farther from real life at Xavier Hall. Indoor games such as pool, ping pong, and cards, together with the more active outdoor sports of baseball, swimming, tennis, and hockey are enjoyed by many of the student body . . .

. . . and occasionally there is a party, movie, play, or concert to break the monotony of the school year . . . It's a good life, a tough life, and it's fun! Everyday life is lived for one purpose—ad maiorem gloriam Dei!

Opportunities for living the liturgical life prescribed by the Church flourish here at St. Joseph's. Major feasts merit Solemn High Masses. Benediction and Rosary are daily occurrences. The various forms for the low Mass can all be attended. Lent and the festive season of Paschal Time are important highlights of the year.

The ministri prepare to ascend the altar steps for the Mass in honor of St. Thomas Aquinas.

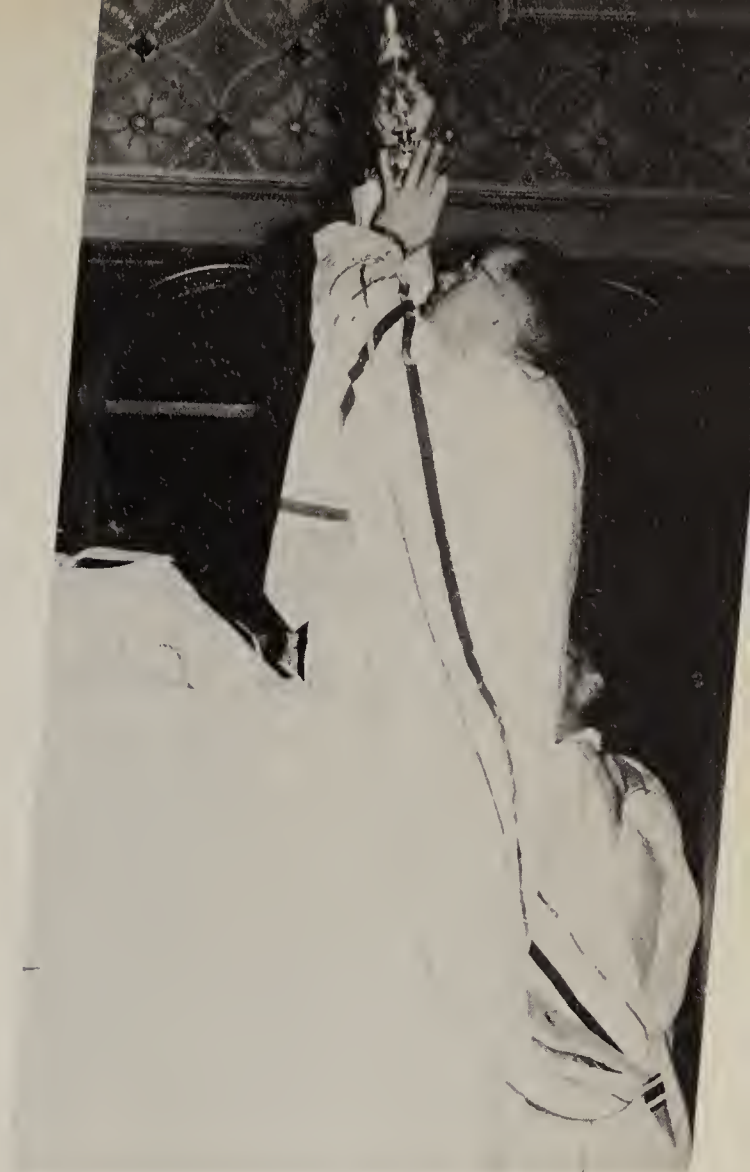

Father Donlan, O.P., preaches the sermon for the feast of the Angelic Doctor.

The awesome climax of the St. Thomas Mass.

The lavabo, a symbol of purification.

Father Marcellus Dreiling celebrates his Silver Jubilee with a Solemn High Mass.

... An impressive custom held at St. Joseph's during the year is the academic procession held before all the Masses in the field-house ...

Every college has the duty to educate its students, but a Catholic college has an added responsibility, to educate its students in a Catholic fashion. This end is achieved in a variety of ways. Obviously, making a certain number of religion courses obligatory for all graduating students is only one way, and probably the least important in the mind of the administration. Overshadowing this by far is—and rightly should be—every Catholic's attitude towards religion and its proper place in modern society. It is no secret, of course, that America needs Catholicism; and where is it going to receive this religion if not from young people—collegians . . .

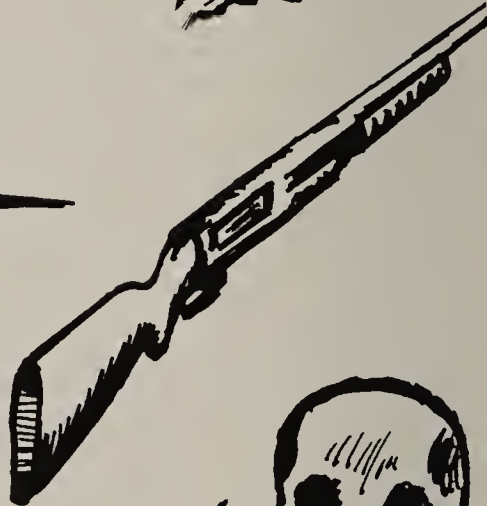

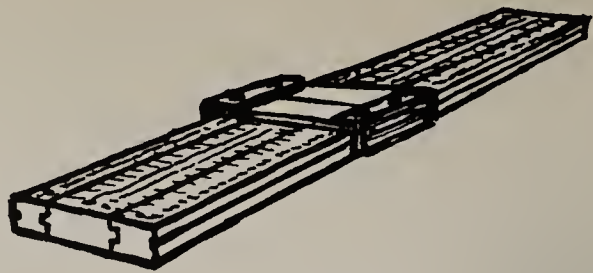

Superseding booklore by an immeasurable amount is the practical side of religion—the doing. Militant Catholic collegians must be DOERS. If one does not row against the current faster than the current is flowing, then he is carried back. And it is quite evident that the forces of Secularism and Materialism, to speak nothing of Communism, are swift currents indeed, threatening to submerge everything that Christianity stands for. “Why stand ye there idle, go ye into My vineyard!” This is Christ’s command to men—collegians. Interpreted, it simply means be faithful to your religious duties, attend Mass, receive the sacraments. St. Joseph’s College merely places the means to fulfilling this command at the disposal of everyone on campus.

Through their many programs and activities, the governmental, academic, social, and religious organizations of St. Joseph's College play a vital role in the life of the campus. The Student Council, representing all members of the student body, not only provides a student government but also a means of communication between the student and the faculty. Academic clubs, through which the students meet informally with instructors and fellow students, promote interest in professional fields through group discussions and trips. Social clubs provide the student with the recreation necessary for the development of one aspect of personality. In addition to these secular activities, many students participate in religious activities sponsored by a special group of organizations. Strongly encouraged by the School, these organizations and activities do much toward preparing the Man for the Future.

St. Joseph's College Glee Club

St. Joseph's College played host for the sixth annual Indiana Catholic College Choral Festival (ICCCF) this spring.

In addition to the St. Joseph's Glee Club, other participating choruses included St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Terre Haute; Marian, Indianapolis; St. Francis, Fort Wayne; and St. Mary's, Notre Dame. Florence Gindl, concert mistress of the Gary Symphony Orchestra, was the guest concert mistress.

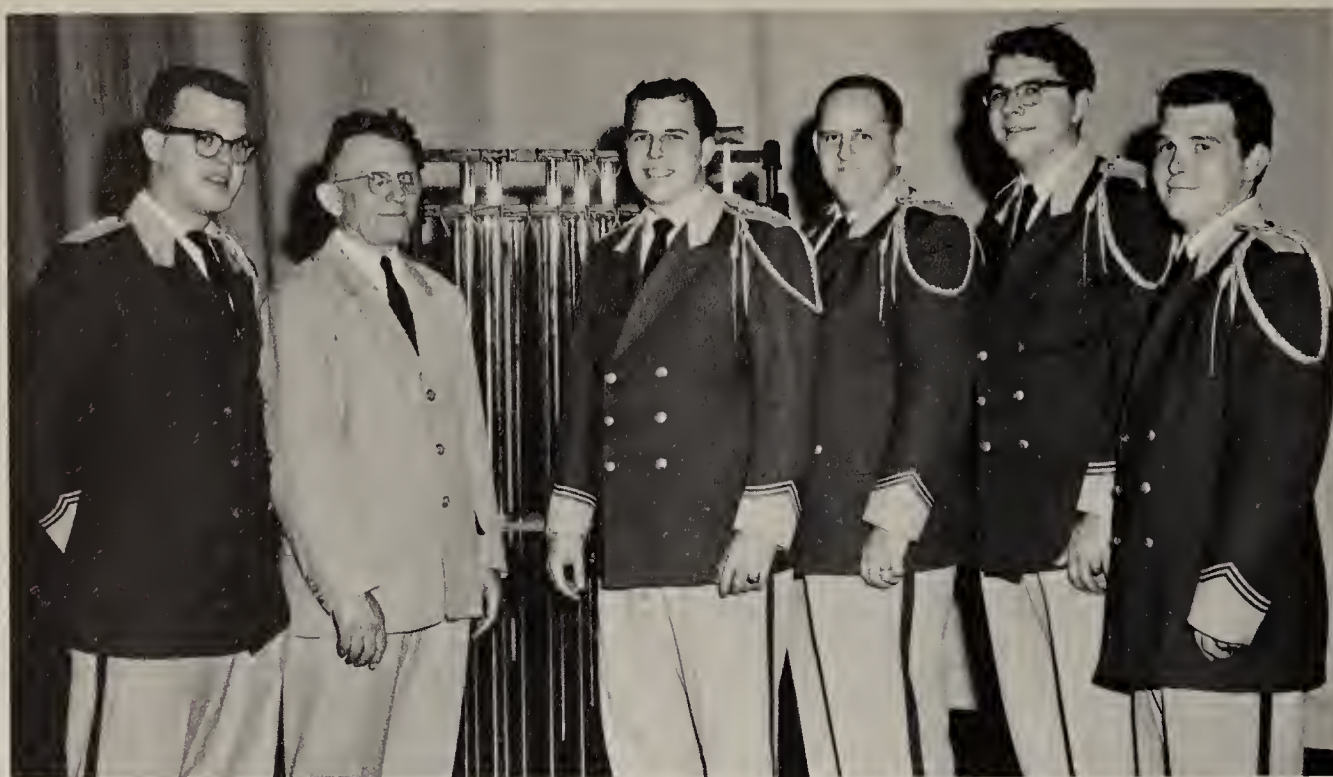

The afternoon Choral Festival opened with a short group of selections by each of the participating schools. This was highlighted by the inspiring solo of Miss Val Wilson of St. Mary-of-the-Woods College.

All the choruses later combined under the direction of Fr. Lawrence Heiman, C.P.P.S., of St. Joseph's, to present the "Drinking Song" from Romberg's Student Prince, and "Let My People Go." The program was climaxed with Bruckner's "Te Deum," for which the 280 voice combined chorus was accompanied by the 42 piece Indiana Catholic College Orchestra.

Athletics is to the body of the Man what his studies are to his mind. The relaxation, satisfaction, and development he finds for his body in athletic participation complement the joys his mind discovers in intellectual activity. The College, realizing that its athletic program promotes school spirit and student initiative, continues to support intercollegiate competition in football, basketball, baseball, track, golf, tennis, bowling, and wrestling. It also makes available to the whole student body the chance for intramural competition in such sports as football, basketball, and softball. The athletic program tries to insure that St. Joseph's graduates will possess the physical qualifications necessary for a full exercise of the intellectual and moral faculties.

Co-captains Jim Madden (80) and Vince Goeddeke (63), together with Jim Dempsey (64), Tom Buscarini (62), and Otto Lehmann (72), lead Pumas onto field in season opener against Northeast Missouri.

An overall lack of manpower hampered the 1960 football Pumas. Coach Joe Iofredo's squad struggled to withstand the second half pressure of teams capable of fielding two and three competent platoons. But with the able assistance of coaches Ed Dwyer and Jim Holstein, the spirited Big Red scored impressive victories over Butler, Evansville and Valparaiso.

Dennis Houlihan (30), Vic Roos (75), and Dennis Mudd (74) open gaping hole in enemy line for Puma fullback Ted Lakomecki (32).

Throughout the 1960 football season, the Pumas displayed a fierce, competitive spirit and will to win. A heart-breaking defeat one weekend resulted in a more determined effort the next. Time and time again the Pumas proved that horsepower was not everything. A combined team effort was the rule rather than the exception. When the season was over and the fans looked back, they realized that the Big Red were mighty—and most certainly they were.

With only four returning lettermen, the 1960-61 basketball Pumas found the going exceptionally rough. After heartbreaking defeats in their first two games of the season, the Big Red never were able to recover. Characteristic of their play was the breathtaking first half splurge followed by a second half dying gasp. Sophomore inexperience and overall lack of depth seemed to be the problem. However, yesterday's youth is tomorrow's veteran.

At the start of the season Coach Joe Iofredo stated that: "We'll never stop running!" Such was the aim of the Pumas as they embarked into the 1960-61 season. But could five men run constantly for forty minutes? Lack of depth and experience made this a necessity if the Big Red were to succeed. Coach Iofredo's Pumas failed to reach their expected heights. Both the veterans and the youngsters gave it all they had but it was not enough because of the strength of the ICC Conference. However, the future is going to tell the real story—a Puma may be kept down for awhile but he is never out.

BASEBALL

The 1961 baseball Pumas concluded their season in fine style by winning their last eight games. A combination of lusty hitting, superb defense and some unexpected pitching enabled the Big Red to compile a .500 mark in the ICC after dropping their first four. With Jim Crowley, Captain Bob Decker and Al Whitlow hitting for the high averages and the home run bats of Ernie Kolesiak and Ron Budzielek booming, Coach Jim Holstein's outfit reached their season peak by dumping front-running Ball State twice in the last ICC games of the year. The Pumas won-lost record was certainly nothing to be ashamed of but could have been considerably better were it not for their slow start in the cold, spring weather.

The Pumas finished fourth in the league race behind Notre Dame, Illinois Institute of Technology, and ahead of DePaul and Valparaiso. They bowled ten matches worth 110 points during the season and finished with a 55-55 record. Included was a 9-2 pasting of Notre Dame in the last game of the regular season.

St. Joseph's varsity bowlers climaxed their season by capturing first place in the six-team Midwest Intercollegiate Bowling Conference tournament at DePaul University in Chicago. In so doing they beat Notre Dame, the regular season MIBC champions and pre-tourney favorites, by two pins. Tourney standouts were team captain Wally Nedza, with a high series of 622 and Steve Jupinka, whose 222 was the third highest single game of the tournament.

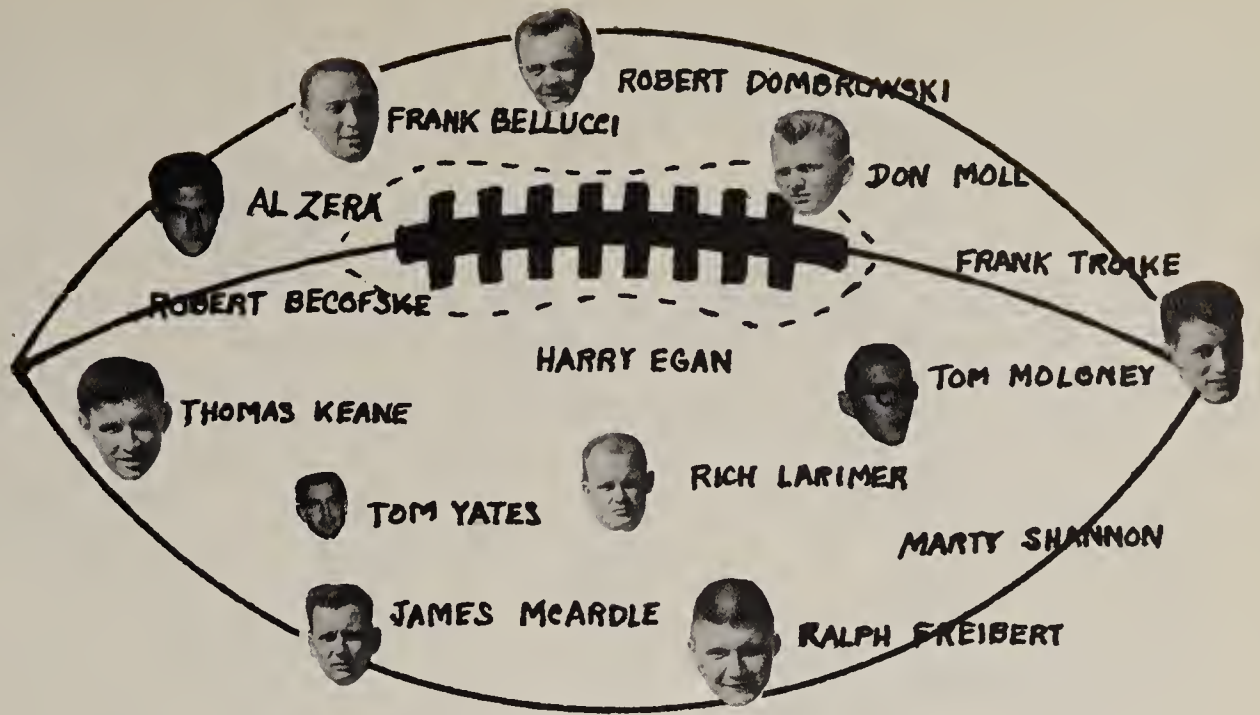

Although newly organized, the St. Joseph's hockey team compiled a very respectable season record. The Pumas competed in a four team league and played their games at Rainbo Arena in Chicago.

After he has his diploma, the Man will leave this men's campus and begin, in association with graduates of other colleges, to work out the American Future. How far they go into the Future, and what direction they take, depends on how successfully they work with each other. Whether or not they, striving and hoping together, make the world a better place in which to live depends to a great extent on their own social development. With this realization, St. Joseph's makes available to its students many opportunities for social improvement. Every social occasion at which the student is present—from the first visit to Raleigh Hall to the senior prom—is an opportunity for the student to gradually improve himself until, at the time of graduation, he is prepared to move into society and contribute his share towards its betterment.

Could be the beginning of a romance.

Mixers

The Saturday nights when there are no date dances at St. Joe's are often reserved for mixers, an unusual but enjoyable Puma custom. The imported girls arrive Saturday and spend the fun-filled weekend at a ball game, the dance, and the ever present walks around the pond.

St. Joe men try to make the famous "Puma impression" in the Rec Hall.

When will they get here?

Where did you say you were from? Beaverville!

Home-coming

Homecoming was dampened by a loss to Ball State, 23-7, but the Pumas didn't let that keep them from having the usual amount of fun in the annual senior-alumni dance held in the Rec Hall.

An enthusiastic welcome for the alumni as they drove in the entrance.

Where's Ralph?

The Rec Hall is crowded for the gala affair.

Tower Dance

The Tower Dance, the underclassman homecoming, saw an island paradise in the Rec Hall. The mood of enchantment filled the evening as Peter Palmer and his Band provided the music for the affair.

Is he taking pennies out of the fountain or putting them in?

Mardi Gras

The Mardi Gras opened in the New Orleans theme of a Roaring 20's niteclub called the Red Room. But Prohibition didn't stop anyone from having a good time. Music of the twenties variety was furnished by the big band of Bobby Christian. (left)

After the show, time for relaxation in the Rec Hall.

Talent Show

The '61 Talent Show offered a variety of new acts designed to keep the audience on the edge of their seats. Comedy, music, even an operetta, produced one of the most fun-filled evenings of the season.

The big night proves to be a big success.

Graduation

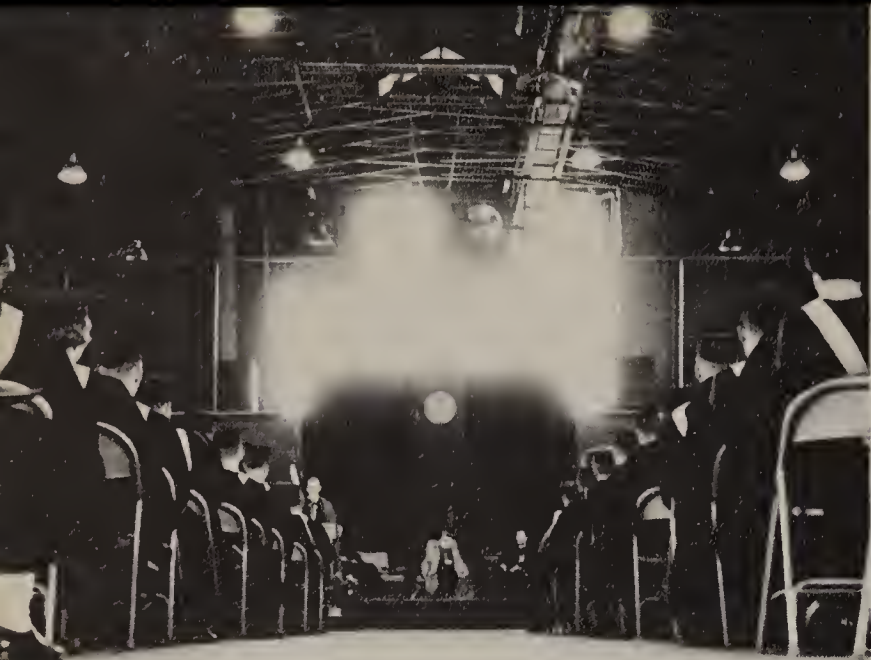

After four years of toil the reward has come for the class of '61. Mixed emotions are shown on the faces of the graduates as they don their caps and gowns for the last time at St. Joseph's. But it is not only a time for sadness and sentimental goodbyes. It is a time for happiness and joy, for because of St. Joseph's and with the help of the faculty, these graduating seniors have become better prepared to meet the future.

Thomas Schoenbaum delivers Valedictorian Speech.

Reverend Henry J. Martin, C.P.P.S., Director of Calumet Center

The new Calumet Center is St. Joseph's College's solution to the pressing problem of making higher education available to hundreds of young men and women who might otherwise be unable to attain it. Realizing that the Rensselaer campus cannot fully meet the demand of the population of the Calumet region, St. Joseph's established first an extension center of adult education in 1951. Through the fifties, this service operated evenings in Bishop Noll High School.

In May of 1960, the College decided to establish the Calumet Center as a full four-year, degree-granting operation. Accordingly, it acquired a building which was quickly renovated to enable it to enroll classes in September of 1960. The building is notable, not only because of its centralized location in East Chicago, but also because it was remodeled from a furniture store into a completely integrated educational facility with modern classrooms, lounges, bookstore, library, and administrative offices.

The Calumet Center, the only degree-granting institution of higher learning in Lake County, is now serving more than 500 students. One hundred and fourteen of these are full-time students and 411 are part-time. A faculty of nine full-time and 22 part-time teachers serve the program. At present, the students at the Center are taking a total of 3,575 credit hours of college work. This represents an increase of 62 per cent over the total the Extension offered last year.

Halleck Student Center

Future Development

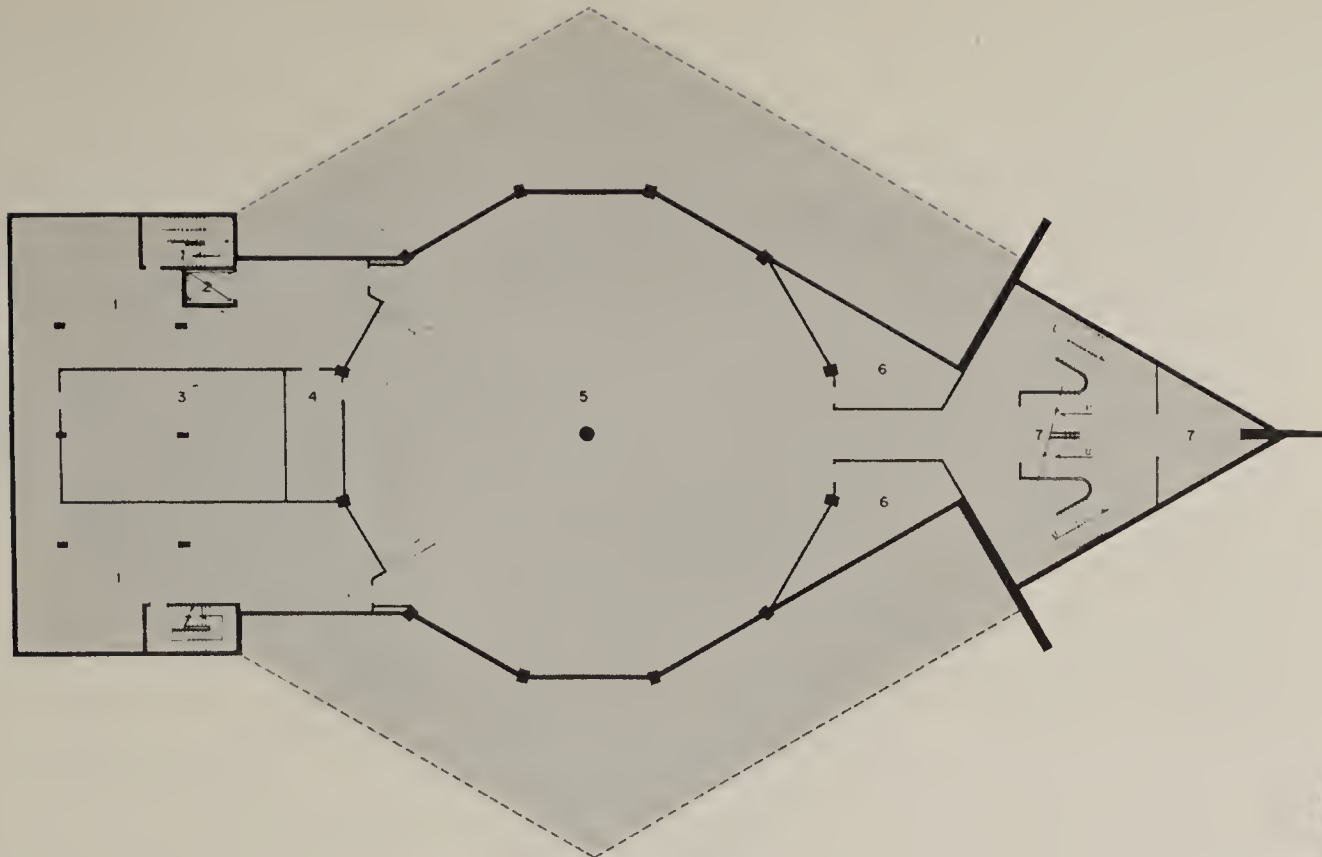

The plan for the future development of the campus is shown on the end sheets of this book. Of the proposed buildings, the two which are most likely to be built soon are the Halleck Student Center and the Faculty House. The architect's sketches of these buildings are shown here.

At the top is the proposed Halleck Student Center, to be built in the circle between Bennett and Noll Halls. It will contain ten times the amount of floor space of Raleigh Hall, which it will replace. The building is named after the Honorable Charles Halleck, who was instrumental in the allocation of the million-and-a-half dollar loan from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency which makes the Center possible.

The proposed Faculty House, below, will serve the priests and brothers of the Precious Blood community with both living and recreational facilities. This building is next in line to the Halleck Student Center for future ground-breaking.
